Greetings from Novartis Hyderabad

We really appreciate and value your recent interest in our Data Scientist job posting, as well as your efforts to complete the technical challenge. You are among the best scorers in that hackathon-style event: congratulations on that achievement!

As such, we would like to invite your further participation in a separate activity that we are conducting in our innovation hub, Novartis Business Services X. We are currently reimagining critical aspects of the Talent Acquisition process by testing out new methods of engaging with and screening candidates for our roles. You have already experienced one of those 'field tests', which was the event recently organized by hackerearth.

The next activity we have organized seeks to do three important things:

1. ensure our job postings and published role requirements are robust and reflect the full complement of skills, experiences and aptitudes we are seeking

2. automatically match those postings and requirements with candidate CV information

3. develop a more complete profile of all applicants by evaluating soft skills and aptitudes through a gamified information-gathering approach

What's in it for you to participate? First, a new and engaging experience! Second, by providing inputs and feedback, you will directly influence the evolution of our Talent Acquisition practices, and make them better, faster and more interesting for all candidates. Third, we will provide you a personalized profile as an appreciation for your time and effort. This profile is customized for you, and will provide valuable insights on how you perform on behavioural skills important for the role of a data scientist.

This is an optional activity, and has no bearing on current or future candidacy. If you are interested in helping us to enrich our practices, please respond to the invitation email that will follow shortly from our partner, Knockri. Knockri is part of the Novartis ecosystem, and they will engage with you directly via email to collect more inputs in order to build a complete talent profile, which will be shared with you.

Thank you for considering our invitation – we are looking forward to your continued engagement!

Hi Team,

Good morning.

As per the last communication I have completed the video assessment successfully. Later I have not received any email communications from your end. can you please share with me the status of the assessment or the further steps that you are planning to take hence I can prepare for the next rounds.

Thanks and regards
